Bathed in the Light - the Light of Christ as printed in the Marshalltown Friends Newsletter

Dear Friends,

I'm a gardener, both inside and out. I love the life cycle, the changing of seasons, and the overall satisfaction of nurturing life through plants. Summertime allows expansion of my "plant life" out on to the deck. But, as you've probably noticed, the days are growing shorter and the temperature cooler. That means all of my house plants have to move back inside. One would think this wouldn't be such a big deal. But I have lots of plants. And most of them are quite large! In fact, my biggest plant is older than my son! No kidding! I have had my tropical Defembacia for over 20 years now! It moves outside all summer and grows happily. Then I cut it back and move it inside again in the fall.

Two plants in particular have given me new insights this season. I have a humungous Peace Lily that was given to my family when my father passed away in 2003. It loved the morning sunlight on the deck, followed by the shady afternoons. Since coming inside it's been pouting - complaining about having to leave the great outdoors. But just this week (after 2 weeks of living inside) it's begun to grow again. Yesterday morning the sun was shining in the east office window, that Peace Lily completely turned toward the direction of the sunshine. Every leaf on the plant was facing the window and the stems were reaching/leaning heavily toward the window.

And then there are my two Thanksgiving cactus. I lost part of a 30+ year old mother plant last winter. All I have left are "starts" from the old plant. All summer the cactus were outside. They didn't look like they were doing anything but surviving. I brought them inside about 3 weeks ago and simply sat them on the floor of the family room to be "dealt with" later. Honestly, I wasn't sure they were even alive. Much to my surprise this week those silly cactus have totally budded out. Hot pink buds, each measuring about 3" in length, are starting to open at the tip of every single row of leaves! It's like watching a miracle. I was sure they were dead....and yet they have proven to be very much alive.

I've been thinking about these plants all week. Truly, these plants are very much like us! There may be times when we don't feel very close to God or even when we wonder if He's even around at all! We may have long periods of time when we don't notice or experience any spiritual growth at all. And then, all of a sudden, we find ourselves bathed in the Light - the Light of Christ - beating in through the window of our hearts. And without even thinking we reach our arms and bask in the warmth of His presence again. And how often do we give up on someone or something, or even a prayer request before God has a chance to offer. Just like those cactus, all they needed was time. They didn't need water or nurturing,...just time. And when the time was perfect, they budded out, ready to show the fullness of their beauty. May we hope in the Lord, Trusting His Light to bring us new life in the days and weeks ahead.

Cuba Workteam Mission Trip Sponsored by FUM January 24 - February 5

The first Meeting for Worship was held on the island of Cuba in the early years of the 20th century. Many of the same Iowans who were pouring their energies into work in Kenya and Jamaica took up the call and aided the start of the work in Cuba, as well. Since then, worship in that geographical area has grown into more than a dozen meetings and missions. Demographic changes and population shifts affected some groups, but new worship groups have started, including one in Havana. Most of the groups and fellowships of Cuba Yearly Meeting are situated in the provinces of Holguin and Las Tunas.

In late January, FUM again sends a work team to Cuba. Travel is slated for January 24-February 5, and the seven participants from the US represent 4 different Yearly Meetings. Workers in "La Brigada," will continue at the site in the city of Holguin where a 3-story structure is being built for Cuba Yearly Meeting (a full member of Friends United Meeting) which will house the yearly meeting office, dorm space for traveling seminary students and work teams, and housing for retired pastors.

In addition, work team members get an opportunity to opportunities for work and worship in Holguin. The meeting there has fellowship times for men, women, children and senior citizens, as well as home/neighborhood prayer groups. Service opportunities are abundant, and many are involved with the large population of physically-challenged people living in Holguin.

Linda Garrison, CQH administrator here in Iowa Yearly Meeting is again leading the work team, and Juli Hisel of Woolson Friends also joins.

"See, I am Doing a New Thing"

One of the joys of USFW is sharing with the women in our meeting. Sometimes it is practical knowledge or it can be a story from our lives that has enriched us and keeps us focused on God. Sometimes it's a poem or a song. And it can be a trouble that we're dealing with and we need support.

I used to feel that USFW was not for me. That I wouldn't fit in. But I've found that I have a spiritual lift from these meetings. I've found that there is such wisdom and caring in our meeting, at times I'm overwhelmed with the love that we share with each other and that it comes from God. It's astonishing!

I love Clara's stories about Kenya. Last week we heard this one. When Clara had been living in Kenya she taught one of her students to play Scrabble and gave her the game as a gift. Many years later upon a visit with this student, now an adult with her own children, the student brought out the very same Scrabble game for them to play. She remarked at how it had helped her children learn as they were growing up and her son now has a very good career. A simple game of Scrabble spanned a generation of learning for that family. How inspiring!

As I anticipate my trip to Belize, next week, I treasure the things I've learned and the support I've received from the women of my USFW. They will all be with me as I am doing a new thing.

Meeting Moments & Vital Signs

Motor Friends - Keith Smith, Pastor

Pastor Keith and wife, Nancy, returned the last of October from a 12-week sabbatical to members who were very thankful they were back. They were welcomed with a carry-in dinner after church the first Sunday after their return. During the time they were gone members of the congregation took turns being in charge of the Sunday morning service. While we missed Keith, everyone has been awakened to the talent we have sitting in the pews.

Two-year old Karly Rose Shelton, daughter of Andrew and Laura Shelton, who accidentally drowned in a farm pond, was laid to rest in Motor cemetery next to family members.

After many hours of labor the landscaping around the church and the Sunday school addition, has been completed and it looks very attractive.

Our prayers go with Chris Koenig, son of Dale and Joy Koenig, who is being deployed to serve a year in Afghanistan.

Motor members helped Helen McElwee celebrate her 97th birthday on November 14 with cake and ice cream during the fellowship hour. Helen is a regular attender.

Year - End Gifts to Iowa Yearly Meeting

As we rapidly approach the end of our fiscal year of 2010 we look back at the ministry of our Yearly Meeting. We are thankful for the emerging work of Friends Church West, the growth of ministry at Camp Quaker Heights, the work at the Mesquakie Friends Center. We remember those that have passed on during this past year and how they had served in the local meetings. Through your faithful contributions and generous gifts, our general superintendent was able to pursue a sabbatical during these last 2 months of the year. We are thankful that he can serve and encourage ministers in Africa.

Looking toward the end of this year of 2010 we would appreciate your consideration of a individual donation to help balance our books. It is through the pledges of our local meetings and the personal contributions of individuals that our Yearly Meeting operates. We strive to be good stewards of these funds. If you would like to make a year-end contribution (post-marked by December 31st) please send it to :
