Challenge for the New Year

By: Tom Showalter, General Superintendent

Global warming is either true or it is false. Understand that my opinion on the topic is irrelevant. Either it is factual or not. Often both sides of the debate use “proof” to support their particular perspective and ignore any evidence that disagrees. (Disclaimer: please do not send me emails, letters, or other communications proving your claims to be true ☺ I merely seek to make a greater point).

The same can be said regarding evolution and a myriad of other debated topics. The point, however, is to illustrate that opinion is irrelevant and the actualities are the essence.

Proverbs 14:12, “There is a way that appears to be right, but in the end it leads to death.” In other words, appearances can be deceiving and our ways can appear good, right, or worth pursuing, but the end result is not something worth pursuing. Who determines “right”? In Right from Wrong (Word, 1994, p. 17), Josh McDowell describes absolute truth as “that which is true for all people, for all times, for all places. Absolute truth is truth that is objective, universal, and constant.”

When it comes to the standard by which to measure our path, let’s examine these three aspects further: Objective, Constant, and Universal.

Objective: A true standard of right and wrong must be objective; that is, it must exist independently of what you or any other person thinks or feels. Otherwise, right and wrong could change from person-to-person. Your conscience is not an objective standard of right and wrong, because it does not exist independently of you, your opinions, and your feelings.

Constant: A true standard of right and wrong must be constant; that is, it must apply to all people in all places. If it did not, right and wrong may change from culture-to-culture or even from community-to-community.

Universal: A true standard of right and wrong must be universal; that is, it must be un-changing. It does not change with time. Otherwise, right and wrong might be different from generation-to-generation, or even from day-to-day. In the absence of a constant standard of right and wrong, you have no hope of knowing, from one minute to the next, whether an act is right or wrong (based upon McDowell’s Right from Wrong book).

Who we are, what we believe, and the path we pursue is of utmost importance. As we enter 2018, may we continue to pursue truth for the important pursuits of Iowa Yearly Meeting. We cannot merely uphold tradition if there is not a purpose for doing so. We must seek the absolutes and pursue God’s agenda as we move forward.

2018 Challenges For a New Year

As I read the Discipline, I find it crucial to challenge IAYM with these thoughts:

- 1) If you have not done so or have not in quite a while, read The Discipline (in addition to your Bibles, of course). Familiarize yourself with the operation of the local church and the Yearly Meeting. (The Discipline can be found on our website iaym.org under the “About Us” tab)
- 2) Pastors, keep in mind, the contract year is July 1 to June 30. Changes made outside that time frame make it more challenging to find another pastor to fill the vacant role.
- 3) Participation at Yearly Meeting sessions at the end of July is crucial. It is essential that your meeting sends delegates. For every fifty members, one delegate is to be sent along with pastoral staff to represent the interests of the local meeting. It is understood that some of our pastors are bi-vocational and unable to attend, but please make an effort to send representatives from your meeting.

Unprogrammed Worship

Sponsored by IAYM Ministry and Counsel Board

Friends across Iowa Yearly Meeting are invited to Grinnell Friends Church at 1:00 p.m. for a gathered time of Unprogrammed Worship. This is a follow-up to the 50 Days of Prayer experienced earlier in 2017.

To make this most meaningful, prepare your hearts to experience the presence of the Holy Spirit as we spend time listening to the Spirit and sharing messages He gives that will benefit the body of Christ. How can you prepare? Even now pray that there will be an outpouring of the Spirit at this gathering. In prayer, open your heart to God asking Him to cleanse your heart from sin so you can experience more of Him. Read the Scriptures anticipating God to reveal fresh guidance and understanding and then expect God to bless you when you participate in our day of Unprogrammed Worship.

If you are being nudged that there is more to being a follower of Christ than you are experiencing, consider participating in the scheduled Deeper with the Spirit workshops that are being offered March 2018-February, 2019. The workshops will occur monthly omitting May, July, August and December.

A commitment to attend all of the workshops is appreciated as they build on one another. There will be a book to read prior to each workshop which will prepare you for that workshop. The first workshop will be on Surrender, Sanctification and Friends Baptism. The second will be Hearing God. Be prepared to sign up for the workshops by February 24 so we will know how to plan.

The Quaker Men Winter Family Banquet will be held Saturday, February 17, in Oskaloosa at the Musco Technology Center on the William Penn University campus. Our speaker for the day will be RJ Sumrall of FCA who also serves as a chaplain of the Iowa State University Cyclone Football team. We will begin at 10:00 AM in a session in which Tom Palmer will join RJ for a discussion of FCA work and their experiences serving as chaplains of college football teams. The banquet will follow at 11:30 with RJ speaking afterwards. In addition to the banquet and speakers, don't forget the annual Pie Auction! Bring your homemade pies and share in the fun. As part of the auction, a special treat this year will be a quilt made from squares (triangles, really) created by elementary campers from Camp Quaker Heights. All proceeds will go to mission projects and works supported by QuakerMen.

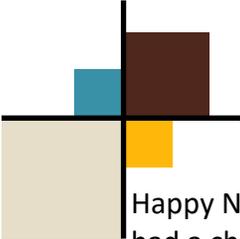

RJ Sumrall was born on February 22, 1986 in Honolulu, HI and grew up in Orlando, FL where he attended Mt. Avery Missionary Baptist Church. He attended Winter Park High School and participated in track and football. He currently has the most point scored in track in school history. In football, he was awarded a full athletic scholarship to Iowa State University. At Iowa State, RJ was introduced to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, where he got saved on October 5, 2007. RJ came on staff with FCA in September, 2014. He serves coaches and athletes in the Des Moines inner-city schools: Hoover, Lincoln, Roosevelt, North and East. RJ is married to Steff and they have a 4 year old son named Jackson along with twins named Parker and Brecken.

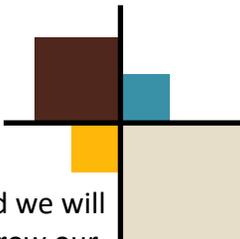

RJ has also served as a chaplain for the Iowa State University Cyclone Football team. His own experience as a wide receiver on ISU teams under Coaches McCarney and Chizek provide a background and connection to the players and coaches there. He is 4th on the career list for receptions and 6th for yardage received in ISU history.

Joining RJ during the 10:00 AM session will be our own Tom Palmer. Retired after 40 years of pastoral service in Iowa Yearly Meeting, Tom works with the FCA program at William Penn University and serves as chaplain to the William Penn football team (#82). He played for the Statesmen during his college days. Tom played tight end during his collegiate days at Penn.

PURSUE INVESTMENT

Happy New Year everyone! I hope you have had a chance to steal some time away to settle into The Spirit over this time of focus on the birth of Jesus, and a time to re: focus on what is to come.

The theme of the Youth and Young Adult Board this year is PURSUIT. I would like to challenge you to pursue investment.

- Investing in teens and young adults
- Invest time and energy
- Invest in relationships
- Invest, not in the church of tomorrow, but of today

We have several ways to either jump start some of those relationships or to deepen others.

Iowa Yearly Meeting offers events and programming throughout the year, with several opportunities coming in the next few months. I am asking that you participate in several ways:

1. Invite age appropriate people to the events.
2. Help with some of the finances to go, if you are able.
3. Arrange and provide transportation to and from the event.
4. Participate by going with them.
5. Participate by taking them out for a coke after the event and talking to them about it.

We ask for your participation for several reasons; the first is safety for our students. We want to provide enough adult supervision at each event to be safe in all aspects of life. We ask for 1 adult for every 7 students. The second is an opportunity for you to connect to your students as well as give them another adult they can have spiritual conversations with and receive wisdom from.

The Iowa Yearly Meeting events, in general, are not drop off events for students. They are events for local meetings to bring students to be with them and grow with them. They are an opportunity for connection to adults and leaders from their local church. The students can come, and we will have other adults, but we want to grow our local churches in their communities, and adults and leaders from there are the most important connection they can have to both the church and Jesus.

These events and programming give you a chance to not have to plan a whole activity, but to come and enjoy just being with them. That is the most important thing you can do at these events. Relationships are built through car trips to the events, at the events, while eating and while walking through spiritual conversations while there and afterwards.

There are several places to get the dates for upcoming events:

- the Iowa Friend monthly newsletter
- the weekly email news "Friend of Friends" (email our office to be added to the list!)
- Our Website IAYM.org and clicking on the Calendar Link and visiting the Youth Ministries page and Young Adult Page. You will register for all the events at IAYM.org/events as well.

And don't forget, camp is just around the corner and we are looking for counselors for each of the camps. Please take a few moments and ask God if He is calling you to invest in this way.

I am also available to come and speak, train and give vision to move in this direction.

If you have any questions, you can contact me at scott@IAYM.org or call the office.
